President Roosevelt and the Southern Problem.

From Record Herald.

Before Theodore Roosevelt has had time to gather the reins of state well in hand he has confronted with the same old southern problem that for a generation has been the puzzle and confusion of Presidents. Every republican administration since Lincoln's has dallied and temporized with the question of federal appointments throughout the South, to the shame of the party and the perpetuation of race animosities in that section. Instead of these appointments being made for the good of the service they have been made almost invariably dictated in the interest of discredited party leaders to coral state delegations to national Republican conventions.

While the result has not always answered the expectation of those manipulating Republican policies in national conventions, the practice of appointing white and sometimes notorious colored Republicans to important offices throughout the South has served to array all its business and conservative elements against the Republican party. In the election it has solidified the solid South.

To the scandalous abuse of the appointing power more than anything else can be traced the continuance of the color line as the dividing line between parties in the South. The appointments which were a bribe to the white, so that while the former were bound to the Republican machine by the expectancy of place, the latter were forced, by what they regard as the law of self-preservation, to support the Democratic ticket en masse, no matter how they might differ over the platforms and candidates of that party.

It is the opinion of the closest observers of political tendencies in the South that the "Solid South" would have suffered disintegration long ago if federal offices had not been used as a bait and bond to keep colored delegations in line for trades and spoils in national Republican conventions.

And now President Roosevelt is face to face with the same old dilemma—appointment to federal office for the benefit of the Republican bosses in the South or for the good of the service and the honor of the country. The death of E. A. Webster, collector of internal revenue for South Carolina, presents a choice between the selection of a man of his notorious kidney or the name of a successor who will have the confidence of all honest men in that state, black or white. The Republican organization urges the appointment of another Webster in the interest of the organization. The wisest statesmanship counsels the selection of a man fit for the office irrespective of what effect it may have upon South Carolina's delegation in the next Republican national convention.

The Record-Herald is rejoiced to see that President Roosevelt has called Boucher T. Washington into his counsel in regard to this phase of the southern policy, and that Mr. Washington has given the sound advice that the old gauge should be "turned down," and that "highly respected white men" should be appointed to federal offices irrespective of party lines.

"You must get the better element of the whites with you if you want to build up the Republican party in the South and make it something besides a byword and a reproach," was the spirit of Mr. Washington's counsel in words he used to Mr. Roosevelt when the latter was still Vice-President. "That is best for the party and for the public service. It is also best for the negro."

There can be no doubt of the wisdom of this last statement. Only a few rapacious colored leaders and their immediate followers in each state profit by the offices and jobs that are distributed from Washington. The great mass of decent and industrious negroes is brought into disrepute and disfavor with their white neighbors by being the voting chattels upon which these leaders trade.

THE HOME GOLD CURE

An Ingenious Treatment by which Drunkards are Being Cured Daily in Spite of Themselves.

No Noxious Dose, No Weakening of the Nerves. A Pleasant and Positive Cure for the Liquor Habit.

It is now generally known and understood that Drunkenness is a disease and not weakness. A body filled with poison, and nerves completely shattered by pernicious or constant use of intoxicating liquors, requires an antidote capable of neutralizing and eradicating this poison, and destroying the craving for intoxicants. Sober men may now cure themselves at home with impunity or loss of time from business by this wonderful "HOME GOLD CURE," which has been reflected after many years of close study and treatment of inebriates. The faithful use according to directions of this wonderful discovery is positively guaranteed to cure the most obstinate case, no matter how hard a drinker. Our records show the marvelous transformation of thousands of drunkards into sober, industrious and upright men.

WIVES, CURB YOUR HUSBAND! CHILDREN, CURB YOUR PARENTS! This remedy is in no sense a nostrum but is a specific for this disease only, and is so skillfully devised and prepared that it is thoroughly soluble and pleasant to the taste, so that it can be given in a cup of tea or coffee without the knowledge of the person taking it. Thousands of drunkards have cured themselves with this precious remedy, and as many more have been cured and made temperate men by having the "CURE" administered by loving friends and relatives without their knowledge in coffee and tea, and believe today that they discontinued drinking of their own free will. DO NOT WAIT. Do not be deluded by apparent and misleading "Improvement." Drive out the disease at once and for all time. The "HOME GOLD CURE" is sold at the extremely low price of one dollar, thus placing within reach of everybody a treatment more effectual than other costing $25-$50. Full directions accompany each package. Special advice by skilled physicians when requested without extra charge. Sent prepaid to any part of the world on receipt of One Dollar. Address Dept. I EDWIN H. GILES & COMPANY, 2339 and 2332 Market Street, Philadelphia.

opinions during his visit to the southern states when he expressed the desire that all memories of the ever to be lamented war should be obliterated from the feelings of his countrymen. And it is known that but for the trammels of anti-slavery obligations dating back to 1895 he would have entered upon reforms in the public service there.

There are no such shackles upon the free hand of President Roosevelt. It is within his power to break up forever the ominous line of race prejudice, fear and mistrust that reigns the voters of the South regarding political questions upon their merits. He can emancipate the negroes from the bonds of self-interest that keep them from taking an independent and self-respecting stand upon questions of national politics. And at the same time he can emancipate the whites from what they regard as the ever-pending black peril of ignorance and baseness.

If in the balance of his term President Roosevelt can accomplish the dissolution of the Solid South into two parties in which white and black shall mix, let their views and votes in about equal proportions, irrespective of race and the spoils of office, he will deserve higher honor from his countrymen than a second term which such true statesmanship may justly deserve or merit.

A HOMEY PHILOSOPHER.

The crops is all gathered, I reckon;
Hain't made a good show for the fall;
But what's the use sighin';
An' walrin' an' cryin'?

Thank God, that's enough for us all!
We've lost some on corn, I reckon,
An' tater air powerfull small;
But what's the use sighin'?
The fritters air fryin',

An' that's just bout enough for us all!

We'll pull through the winter, I reckon;

We never have gone to the wall;

So put on the griddle,

An' tune up the fiddle—

That's room in the quadrille for all!

HAPPENED IN A DRUG STORE.

"One day last winter a lady came to my drug store and asked for a brand of cough medicine that I did not have in stock," says C. R. Grandin, the popular druggist of Ontario, N.Y. "She was disappointed and wanted to know what a cough preparation I could recommend. I said to her that I could feel recommend Chamberlain's cough remedy and that she could take a bottle of the remedy and after giving it a fair trial if she did not find it worth the money to bring back the bottle and I would refund the price paid. In the course of a day or two the lady came back again with a friend in need of a cough medicine and advised her to buy a bottle of Chamberlain's cough remedy. I consider that a very good recommendation for the remedy." It is for sale at Webb Bros.
